

PHYDO

PHYDO is an audiovisual digital preservation repository that integrates preservation actions aimed at long-term stewardship of content and provides discoverability and access to files for collection managers based on technical and descriptive metadata. PHYDO is a collaborative, open-source project between Indiana University Libraries and the WGBH Educational Foundation Media Library and Archives that utilizes the emerging Fedora 4 repository architecture. It was previously referred to as the HydraDAM2 project.

Administrator and User Documentation

PHYDO User Guide

Technical Documentation for Developers

For information on installation and customization, see the Github project page and the Hyrax-Preservation gem page.

Project Background

Project Team

PHYDO Background

Development History and Context

Publications and Presentations